Section F – Comprehension MCQ (5 x 1) marks

Read the given passage below and answer questions 26 to 30.

Although Singapore has become known for its beautiful cityscape and its well-designed urban housing, there are still many natural sites that Singaporeans can be very proud of. One of the most popular nature spots in Singapore is the Bukit Timah Nature Reserve. On weekends, it is common to see people trekking in the rainforest, strolling along the trails or just enjoying the beautiful scenery from the hilltop while having a little picnic. 5

Another popular nature spot in Singapore is the island of Pulau Ubin in the North-East of Singapore. Pulau Ubin is enjoyed by people who make day trips to cycle along old forest roads or by campers who would like to experience a night sleeping in the forest or along its sandy shores. Many Singaporeans also visit Pulau Ubin to experience the rustic charm of the little kampongs or villages there. Such kampongs no longer exist in mainland Singapore, and there are less than a hundred people living in the Pulau Ubin kampung today. Such kampongs are simple and do not have many modern amenities such as tap water and electricity that urban homes have. However, the simple way of life in the kampongs brings about fond memories among the older visitors. Also, there is far less stress and people there are more carefree in their outlook towards life. They tend to live longer and more peaceful lives as a result. 10 15

As a result of the increasing number of visitors to Pulau Ubin, more shops have sprung up and more people are working on the island. A new resort with modern facilities has been built and most shops have Internet access for work purposes. However, most people who work in Pulau Ubin no longer live there and they would rather live in mainland Singapore and take a ferry ride to work each morning. However, if there is rainy weather in Singapore, these workers may not be able to go to work on some mornings as the sea is too choppy for boats to travel safely. Also, ferry operators do not work after dark, so if these workers miss the last ferry, they may end up sleeping in the ferry terminal! 20 25

A lot has been done by the government and other organizations to ensure that nature reserves in Singapore are well protected. Laws restricting the types of activities taking place in such nature reserves have been put in place and are strictly enforced. Littering, harming the flora and fauna and building of man-made structures can be punishable with heavy fines and even imprisonment. They will go a long way in protecting the few nature spots left in Singapore. 30

For each question from 26 to 30, four options are given. One of them is the correct answer. Choose the correct answer and shade the corresponding oval on the Optical Answer Sheet (OAS) provided.

26. According to the passage, which of the following activity is NOT done by visitors to Bukit Timah Nature Reserve?

- 1) Hiking
- 2) Camping
- 3) Picnicking
- 4) Forest Trail Walks

27. Which of the following words have the same meaning as rustic in line 11?

- 1) Simple
- 2) Elegant
- 3) Beautiful
- 4) Sophisticated

28. Who does the word "they" in line 18 refer to?

- 1) Villagers who live in kampongs.
- 2) People who camp in Pulau Ubin.
- 3) People who live and work in Pulau Ubin.
- 4) Older visitors who are visiting Pulau Ubin.

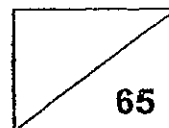

29. What was one problem encountered by people working in Pulau Ubin?

- 1) There were no modern amenities.
- 2) They had to live in the kampongs.
- 3) They were subjected to strict laws.
- 4) They were not able to get to work in bad weather.

30. What is the main idea in the last paragraph?

- 1) Singapore has very strict laws.
- 2) Life in Pulau Ubin has changed a lot.
- 3) Strict laws help to protect the nature spots in Singapore.
- 4) No activities are allowed to take place in nature spots in Singapore.

Global warming is an issue which is frequently discussed today. ^G (31) people believe that it is a serious issue but a small number still believe that nothing serious will result from it. Scientists and other experts have warned ^Q (32) taking this issue lightly. If the rate ^H (33) warming continues, they predict that the polar ice caps would begin to melt further. ^C (34) a result, many countries around the world would begin to experience serious climate changes. Low-lying countries which are presently only a few metres ^D (35) sea level will soon become covered by water.

As polar ice caps melt, changes to the temperature of both the lands and the oceans will take place. Species of fish and other aquatic life ^P (36) are sensitive to the water temperature may become extinct. The rise in temperature will also result in the rapid growth of algae and other microorganisms in water bodies. When ^M (37) a huge number of microorganisms grow and then die, they consume a large amount of oxygen in the water. This creates what scientists call a "death zone" as no other species ^F (38) live in such a low oxygen environment. "Death zones" in the oceans have already been reported in many parts of the world. ^N (39) is no other solution to global warming than to reduce our carbon footprint. ^Q (40) can do the most to stop global warming? The answer is you.

Section I – Comprehension Cloze (15 x 1) marks
Fill in each blank with a suitable word.

Ancient civilizations have been well-researched by historians and archaeologists over the past few centuries. However, very little (51) is known about a particular civilization. This is the island of Atlantis and its people which became lost around 9000BC. Atlantis was first described by (52) the philosopher Plato in 360BC. Plato mentioned that the island was the worst place (53) for all cities to follow as it was ruled by cruel and greedy kings. Atlantis ruled over many other cities, using its large array (54) of ships to conquer distant lands. The inhabitants of these conquered cities were often forced to be mining (55), working for the rulers of Atlantis without pay or freedom. However, the evil empire of Atlantis got its just desserts when an earthquake struck the island and it collapsed (56) into the ocean within a day.

Due to the lack of evidence (57), many historians find it impossible to prove that Atlantis once existed. In fact, most people believe that Atlantis is an imaginary (58) place rather than a real one. Despite the difficulties of searching the oceans for Atlantis, many people continue to spend millions of dollars each year on Atlantis expeditions. They believe that the money spent to find such an important place is worth (59) it. With the rise of new forms of technology (60) such as satellite photos and underwater cameras, the search for Atlantis has become easier. In 2011, a man named Richard Freund claimed that he had found the lost island of Atlantis. Such a discovery (61) stirred up great interest. As a result, it was widely produced (62) in the newspapers. However, when other experts examined his photographs, they concluded that these photographs were not enough (63) to prove that Atlantis exists.

Although (64) Atlantis was lost almost twelve thousand years ago, it has captured the imagination of the people. Whether the story is true or false (65), no one knows. Only time will tell.

Section K – Comprehension (10 x 2) marks

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

The night was still and all that could be heard were the crickets' songs. I stood very still and motioned to the other rangers to do so. I knew that they would be coming very soon and they must not know that we were waiting for them. The sound of an engine soon echoed in the distance and in a moment, the jeep had reached the clearing just in front of us. The poachers disembarked and started laying traps. I signalled to the other rangers that we were ready to move in.

However, a hand grabbed my shoulder. I turned and Ranger Wakabi pointed to a man beside the jeep. In the moonlight, I could see that the man was carrying a rather large weapon. It must be a machine gun, and we were no match for them. I looked at the humble little pistol in my hand and shook my head. What could I do? I could not possibly let them capture the endangered animals and get away with it. We needed a good plan to apprehend the poachers without anyone getting hurt and I could not think of one.

Another ranger, Ranger Sapoy, whispered in my ear, "Look! Only one of them is armed and he is not moving. Wakabi and I can creep up towards him from behind the jeep and subdue him. However, the rest of you have to distract him before we move in on him." It sounded like a good plan and Rangers Sapoy and Wakabi soon moved to the edge of the clearing. They tiptoed towards the back of the jeep and got ready. The rest of us soon created a commotion in the bushes and the man with the machine gun stood erect and walked towards us.

The two rangers sprang out from the back of the jeep and pushed the armed man to the ground. In the struggle, the man fired off a burst of bullets towards the direction of the bushes. The rest of the rangers emerged from the bushes and apprehended the other poachers. However, I did not move an inch. All I felt was a sharp pain piercing my belly and a few seconds later, I blacked out.

I woke up to find myself lying on a hospital bed. Dr Jamal smiled as he looked at me. "You are one lucky young man," announced Dr Jamal. He added that the bullet which had pierced through me had exited the body without damaging any vital organs.

"Will I recover soon?" I asked.

"You will be back on your feet in a few days. Such wounds heal very quickly," explained Dr Jamal.

"That's great! There are more poachers out there that I must stop," I added.

Later, when the other rangers visited me in the hospital, they informed me that they had found the carcasses of several endangered animals on the poachers' jeep from the previous night. My heart sank. However, it made me even more eager to recover soon so that I could get back to protecting the animals in the Nairobi Nature Reserve.

For each question from 71 to 80, write your answer in the space provided. All answers must be in complete sentences.

71. What was the writer's occupation?

72. Who does "they" in line 2 refer to?

73. Why did Ranger Wakabi grab the writer's shoulder?

74. Why did the writer think that the rangers were no match for the poachers?
